A letter to William Blackleach, Chauncellor of the Dioces of Glocester. Whereas their Lordships were given to understand on the behalf of John Jones, Registre of that Dioces of Glocester, that you of your owne authority, without the consent and contrary to the liking and commaundment of the now Lord Bisshop of Glocester, have dispossessed him of his office of Registre which (as we are enformed) he holdeth by pattent confirmed, and hath recovered the same as well by decree in the Chancery as by injunction out of the Court of Requests, wherby you intend, as it should seeme contrary to law and equity, to vex, impoverish and undo the same Jones before he shalbe hable by ordinary proceedings in lawe to redres the wrongs so offred him, a matter in our opinions very fowle and contrary to all right and equity, and in any man not to be allowed, much les in one of your function and calling. We have therfore thought good to requier you to permit the said Jones and his deputies peaceably to execute his said office and receave the usuall fees therunto belonging according to the tenour of his pattent and the said decree and injunction, without any interruption or let to be made by you or any by your consent and procurement, until by ordinary and usuall course of justice shalbe proved and order set downe to the contrary, and so requiring you to have care for the performance hereof accordingly, we bid you farewell.
