

and assurance, speciallie to appoint some place and time, though their comming home be the later, where they may meete togeather so as they may be al in one in consort at such time as they are to pass the Streightes, wherebie they may be the better able to defend themselves against the malicious purpose of th'enemy and those forces he hath prepared to annoy and distress them. Hereof we are to require you not to faile withal speed to give present order, considering how greatlie yt importeth you and them, and the greate dishonour her Majestie should receive yf his malicious purpose should take effect.

A letter to the Justices of Peace in the countie of Anglesei. Whereas Sir Richard Buckley, knight, being Deputie Lieutenant in the Isle of Anglesey, doth at this presente, by her Majestie's commaundement, repaire thither to take uppon him the charge of that Isle as heretofore he hath don, because of late he hath received some sensure in the Court of Star Chamber at the suit of Owen Wood, wherebie, yt may be, the opinion and credit of the gentleman may be called in question amongst you, her Majesty's pleasure is we should let you understand that with her good opinion and liking he is sent thither at this present time to reside there and to have the charge for the defence of that coast, and that therefore the censure he received in that Court should be no occasion to diminish his credit and reputacion with you, especiallie considering the greate provokement of the said Owen Wood, that did draw him to that which otherwise he would not have don. For which respect we are not onlie to require you that the reputacion and credit of the gentleman may be preserved in your good opinions, but to yeld him that obedience (as Deputie Lieutenant theare) which shalbe meete for the furtherance of her Majesty's service and defence of the countrie in those times of doubt and daunger.

Release of Sir Richard Bulkeley.

A warrant to Owen Wood commaunding him not to goe forth of his house, but to be forthcomming when he should be sent for before their Lordships to aunsweare to
