

The fyfth boke of Moses called in the hebreue: elle haddebarim, & in the Latin.

Deuteronomium.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ A bryefe reherfall of thynges done before.

These be þe wordes which Moses spake vnto all Israel, on the other syde Jordan in the wildernesse, in þe plaine ouer agaynst þe redd see, betwene Pharan and Cophel, Labā, hazeroth and Dilahab, ele-uē dayes iourney fro Horeb vnto Cades barne, by mount Seir. And it fortuned the fyrst daye of þe cleuenth moneth in þe fortieth yere, that Moses spake vnto the chyldre of Israel accordynge vnto all that the Lorde had geue him in comaundmēt vnto the, after that he had syntrē * Sehon the kyng of the Amorites which dwelt in Hesbon, and Og kyng of Basā which dwelt at Astaroth in Edrai.

* Num. xxi. e

On the other syde Jordan in the lande of Moab, begane Moses to declare thys lawe sayynge: the Lorde oure God spake vnto vs in Horeb sayynge: Ye haue dwelt lōge ynough in this mount. departe therfore & take youre iourney, and go vnto the hyll of the Amoi-tes and vnto all places nye there vnto: both vnto the playne, and hylls and dales: to the south, to the leys syde, to the lande of Canaā, and vnto Libanon: euen vnto the greate ryuer Euphrates. Beholde, I haue let the land

* Gene. xii. b.
and. xlii. b.

before you: goo in and * possesse the lande whych the Lorde sware vnto youre fathers Abrahā, Isaac and Jacob, to geue vnto the and theyr seede after them.

* Exo. xlii. e

And I spake vnto you the same reasoun sayynge: I am not able to beare you my selfe alone. For the Lorde youre God had multi-plyd you: and beholde, ye are thys daye as the starres of heauen in nombze (the Lorde God of youre fathers make you a thousande tymes so many moo as ye are, and blesse you as he hath promysed you) howe can * I my selfe alone, beare the commaunce, charge and stryfe that is amonge you: byynge (from amonge you) men of wysdome and of vnderstandynge, and experte, accorpyng to youre trybes, and I wyll make them ruelars ouer you: And ye answered me and sayde: that whych thou hast spoken is good for vs to do. And out of youre trybes I toke the captaynes, (men of wysdome and that were experthe) and made them ruelars ouer you: captaynes ouer thousandes & ouer hundredes ouer fyfthe and ouer ten, and offycers amonge youre trybes.

* Jobn. viii. a

And I charged youre Judges that same tyme sayynge: heare the cause of youre brythre and * iudge ryghtcouly betwene euery mā and hys bryther, and the straunger that is with hym. Se that ye knowe no faces in Judgemēt: * but heare the small as well as the greate, and be afrayed of no man, for the iudgement is Gods. And the cause that is to * harde for you, byynge vnto me, and I will heare it. And I commaunded you the same reason, all the thynges whych ye shulde do.

* 2. cor. xii. c.
1. 2. cor. xii. c.

And when we departed fro Horeb, we went thorowe all that greate and terrible wyldernesse, as ye haue sene alonge by the waye of the hyll of the Amozites, as the Lorde oure God commaunded vs, and came to Cades Barne. And I sayde vnto you: Ye are come vnto the hyll of the Amozites, which þe Lorde oure God wyll geue vnto vs. Beholde, the Lorde thy God hath set the lande before the:

* Exo. xlii. d goo vp and conquere it, as the Lorde God of thy fathers hath sayde vnto the: * feare not, nether be discouraged. But ye came vnto me euery one and sayde: * we wyll sende me before vs, to iearche vs oute the lande, and to byynge vs worde agayne, what waye we must go vp by, & vnto what cyties we shall come. And the sayynge pleased me well, and I toke twelue me of you, of euery trybe one.

* Deut. i. a

Whych departed, and went vp into the hye cōtre, and came vnto the ryuer Escoll, and serched it out, & toke of the frute of the lande
* (to declare the plenteuousnesse therof) in theyr hādes & brought it vnto vs, and brought vs worde agayne, & sayde: it is a good lande, whych the Lorde oure God doth geue vs.

* Num. xlii. a

Notwithstandynge ye wolde not consente to goo vp, but were disobedient vnto the mouth of the Lorde youre God, and murmured in youre tentes, & sayde: because the Lorde hateth vs, therfore hath he brought vs out of the lande of Egypte, to deliuer vs in to the hāde of the Amozites, and to destroye vs. Howe shal we goo vp? Dure brythre haue discouraged oure herte, sayynge: * the people is greater & taller then we, and haue cy-ties greate and walled euen vp to heauen, & moreouer we haue sene the sonnes of the Enakims there.

* (to declare the plenteuousnesse therof) in theyr hādes

And I sayde vnto you: dreade not, nor be afrayed of the. The Lorde youre God which goeth before you, he shal fyghte for you, accorpyng to all þe dyd vnto you in Egypte before

* Num. xlii. a before youre eyes. In the wyldernesse also thou hast sene howe that the Lorde thy God bare the, euen as a man doth beare hys sonne, in all the waye whych ye haue gone by, vntyll ye came vnto thys place. And yet in this thyng ye dyd not beleue the Lorde pou-re God. He went in the waye before you, to serche you out a place to pytche youre tentes in, * in fyze by nyght, & ye myghte se what waye to go, and in a cloude by daye.

* Exo. xlii. d

And the Lorde hearde the voyce of youre wordes, and was wroth, & sware, sayynge:
* there shall not one of these men and of this frowarde generacyon se þe good lande which I sware to geue vnto youre fathers, saue Caleb the sonne of Iephune, he shall se it * and to hym wyll I geue þe lāde that he hath trodden vpon, and to hys chyldre, because he hath folowed the Lorde * (wonderfull was that indignacyon agayn the people, seynge that) * the Lorde was angrye wyth me lyke wyse for youre sakes, sayynge: I also shal not go in thither. But Josua the sonne of Nun which standeth before the, he shal go in thither. Wolden hym therfore, for he shal cause Israel to inheret þe lan-de. * Moreouer youre chyldre, which ye sayde shulde be a pzaie, and youre sonnes which in that daye had no knowlege betwene good and euell, they shal goo in thither, and vnto them wyll I geue it, and they shal enioy it.

* Num. xlii. d

* 2. cor. xii. c.

* 2. cor. xii. c.

* 2. cor. xii. c.

* 2. cor. xii. c.

But as for you, turne youre face, and take youre iourneye into the wildernesse: euen by the waye of the reade see. Then ye answered & sayde vnto me: * We haue synned agaynst the Lorde: we wyll go vp and fyghte, accor-pyng to all that the Lorde oure God comaūded vs. And when ye had gyde on euery mā his wepos of warre, beholde, ye were ready to goo vp into the hyll. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: saye vnto the, that they go not vp, and that they fyghte not, for I am not among you: lest ye fall before youre enemyes I tolde you therfore, and ye wolde not heare, but disobeyed the mouth of the Lorde, & went presumptuously vp into the hyll.

* Num. xlii. e

* Num. xlii. e

* Num. xlii. e

* Num. xlii. e

* Num. xlii. e

And the Amozites whych dwelt in that hyll, came out agaynst you, and chased you (as bees use to do) & smote you in Seir, euen vnto Hozma. And ye came agayne, & wepte before the Lorde: but the Lorde wolde not heare youre voyce, nor geue you audience.
* And so ye abode in Cades a longe reason, accordynge vnto the tyme that ye remayned in other places.

* Num. xlii. e

* Num. xlii. e

* Num. xlii. e

* Num. xlii. e

* Num. xlii. e

The ii. Chapter.

¶ That whych was done from the tyme they departed from Cades barne, vnto the batell agaynst the kynges Sehon and Og.

¶ Then we * tourned oure face, & to-ke oure iourney into þe wyldernesse euen by the waye of the reade see as the Lorde spake vnto me. And we compassed mount Seir a longe tyme. And the Lorde spake vnto me, sayynge: Ye haue co-passed thys mountayne longe ynough, tour-ne you northward. And warne thou the people sayynge: Ye shall go thorowe the coast of youre brythzen the chyldren of Esau whych dwell in Seir, & they shal be afrayed of you: Take ye good hede vnto your selues therfore. Ye shall not prouoke them, for I wyll not geue you of their lande, no not so moche as a fote bredth * because I haue geuen mounte Seir vnto Esau to possesse ye shal byc meat of the for money to eate, and ye shal procure water of them for money to drynke. For the Lorde thy God hath blessed the in all the wor-kes of thy hande. he knewe thy entrynge in to this greate wyldernesse this xl. yeres, and the Lorde thy God hath bene with þe, so that thou hast lacked nothyng.

* Ge. xxi. b
1. 2. cor. xii. c.

And when we were departed from oure brythzen the chyldren of Esau whych dwell in Seir, the playne waye from Elath & from Ezion Gaber, we turned & went by þe waye of the wyldernesse of Moab. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: * Thou shalt not fyghte a-gaynst the Moabites, nether prouoke the to battell, for I wyll not geue the of their lande to possesse: because I haue geue Ar vnto the chyldren of Loth to possesse. The terrible people the * Emims dwell therein in tymes past,

* Jud. i. d

* 2. cor. xii. c.

a people great, many & tall, as the Enakims: whych also were taken for giannes as the Enakims: who the Moabites call Emims.

The Hozims dwell in Seir before tyme, whose posseltyon the chyldren of Esau occu-pyed, and destroyed the before them, & dwell in their stead: as Israel dyd vnto the lāde of his posseltyon, which þe Lorde gaue the. Howe ryle vp (sayd I) & get you ouer the ryuer zared: & we wet ouer the ryuer zared. The space in whych we came from Cades barne vntill we were come ouer the ryuer zared, was xxxviii. yeres: vntyll all the generacyon of men of warre were wasted out fro amonge the host, as the Lorde sware vnto the. * For in dede the hande of the Lorde was agaynst them, to destroye them from amonge the host, till they were consumed.

* Num. xlii. e
and. xlii. e

And so it came to passe, that all the me of warre were consumed and deed from amonge the people. And the Lorde spake vnto me, sayynge: Thou shalt go thorow Ar the coast of Moab thys daye: and whan thou comest nye vnto the chyldren of Ammon, thou shalt not laye sege vnto them, ner moue warre a-gaynst the. For I wyll not geue the of þe lāde of the chyldren of Ammon a posseltyon, but I haue geuen it vnto the chyldren of Loth to possele. That also is take for a land of giātes, and giannes dwell therein in olde tyme, whom the Ammonites call zazunims. * A people that was great, many, & tall, as the Enakims.

* Num. xlii. e