there was light.

4 And God saue the lyght that it was good: and God deuided the lyght from the darknes.

5 And God called the light day, and the darknes night: "and the euenyng & the mornyng were the "first day.

6 And God said: *let there be a "firmament betwene the waters, and let it make a diuision betwene waters and waters.

7 And God made the ^(c) firmament, and set the diuision betwene the waters which [were] vnder the firmament, and the waters that [were] * about ^(d) the firmament: and it was so.

8 And God called the firmament the heauen: and the euenyng and the mornyng were the seconde day.

9 And God saide: *let the ^(e) waters vnder the heauen be gathered together into one place, and let the drye lande ap-peare: and it was so.

10 And God called the drye lande y earth,
and the gatheryng together of waters
called he the seas: and God saue that it was good.

(h) God gave them vertue to fructifie and byng forth the lyke.

foorth [both] budde and hearbe apt to seede, and fruitfull trees yeeldyng fruite after his kynde, which hath seede in it selfe vpon the earth: and it was so.

12 And the ^(g) earth brought forth [both] bud and hearbe apt to seede after his kynde, and tree yeeldyng fruite, whiche hath seede in it selfe, after his kynde.

13 And God sawe that it was good. And the euenyng and the mornyng were the thirde day.

14 And God sayde: *let there be lyghtes in the firmament of the heauen, that they may deuide the day and the nyght, and let them be for ^(h) signes, & seasons, and for dayes, and yerres.

15 And let them be for lyghtes in the firmament of the heauen, that they maye geue light vpon the earth: and it was so.

16 And God made two great lyghtes: a greater lyght to rule the day, and a lesse lyght to rule the nyght, and [he made] starres also.

17 And God set them in the firmament of the heauen, ⁽¹⁾ to shyne vpon the earth,

18 And to *rule the day and nyght, and to make difference betwene the lyght and the darknesse: and God saw that it was good.

19 And the euenyng and the mornyng were the fourth day.

20 And God sayde: let the waters byng forth mouyng creature that hath lyfe, and foule that may flec vpon the earth in the open firmament of heauen.

21 And God created great Whales, and euery lyuyng & mouyng creature, which the waters brought forth after their kynde, & euery feathered foule after their kynde: and God saw that it was good.

22 And God ^(h) blessed them, saying: Be fruiteful, and multiplie, and fyll the waters of the sea, and let foule multiplie in the earth.

23 And the euenyng and mornyng were the fift day.

24 And God sayde: let the earth byng forth lyuyng creature after his kynde, cattell, worme, and beastes of the earth after his kynde: and it was so.

25 God made the beast of the earth after his kynde, and cattell after his kynde, and euery thyng that creepeth vpon the earth after his kynde: and God sawe that it was good.

26 ⁽¹⁾ God saide: *let vs make man in ^(m) our image, after our lykenesse, and let them haue rule of the fishe of the sea, & of the foule of the ayre, and of cattell, & of all the earth, and of euery creeper thyng that creepeth vpon the earth.

27 So God created man in his ⁽ⁿ⁾ owne image, in the image of God created he him, *male and female created he them.

28 And God blessed ^(o) them, and God sayde vnto them: *be fruitefull, & multiplie, and replenishe the earth, & subdue it, and haue dominion of the fishe of the sea, and foule of the ayre, & of euery lyuyng thing that moueth vpon the earth.

29 And God sayde: beholde, I haue geuen you euery ^(p) hearbe bearing seede, which is in the vpper face of all y^e earth, and euery tree in the which is the fruite of a tree bearing seede, * [that] they may be meate vnto you:

30 To euery beast of the earth also, and to euery birde of the aire, and to euery such thyng that creepeth vpon y^e earth, which doth *liue, I haue geuen euery greene hearbe for meate: and it was so.

31 * And God sawe euery thyng that he had made: and beholde, it was exceeding good. And the euenyng & the mornyng were the sixth day.

uens and of the earth when they were created, in the day when the Lord God made the earth and the heauens.

5 And every plant of the fiede before it was in the earth, and every hearbe of the fiede before it grewe. For the Lord God had not [yet] caused it to rayne vpon the earth, neither [was there] a man to tyll the grounde.

6 But there went by a miste from the earth, & watered the whole face of the grounde.

7 The Lord God also dyd shape man, [euē] ^(c) dust frō of the grounde, & breathed into his nolethrylles the breath of lyfe, and man was a lyuyng soule.

8 And the Lord God ^(d) planted a " garden eastwarde in * Eden, and there he put the man whom he had shapen.

9 Moreover, out of the grounde made the Lord God to growe ^(e) every tree, that was fayre to syght, and pleasaunt to eate: The tree ^(f) of lyfe in the myddest of the garden, and the tree of ^(g) knowledge of good and euyl.

10 And out of Eden there went forth a flood to water the garden, and from thence it was deuided, and became into foure heades.

11 The name of y^e first is * Pison, the same is it that compasseth the whole lande of ^(h) Hauilah, where there is golde:

12 And the golde of the lande is very good. There is also bdellium, and the Onix stone.

13 The name of the seconde riuier is Gy-hon: the same is it that compasseth the whole lande of ⁽ⁱ⁾ Ethiopia.

14 The name of y^e thirde ryuer is " Hidekel, & it goeth toward the east side of Assiria: & the fourth ryuer is Euphrates.

15 And the Lord God toke the man, and put hym in the garden of Eden, that he myght ^(k) worke it, and kepe it.

16 And the Lord God ^(l) commaunded the man, saying: eating, thou shalt eate of euery tree of the garden:

17 But as touching the tree of knowlege of good and euyl thou shalt not eate of it: For in what daye so euer thou eatest therof, thou shalt dye the ^(m) death.

18 And the Lord God sayde: It is not good y^e the man should be alone, I wyll make hym an ⁽ⁿ⁾ helpe " lyke vnto hym.

19 And so out of the grounde the Lord God had shapen euery beast of the field, and euery foule of the ayre, and brought it vnto man, that he myght see howe he woulde call it. For lyke wyse as man hym selfe named euery lyuyng thyng, euē so was the name therof.

20 And the man ^(o) gaue names to all cattell, and foule of the ayre, & euery beast of the fiede: but for man founde he not an helpe lyke vnto hym.

21 The Lord God caused a deepe sleepe to fall vpon Adam, and he slept, and he toke one of his ribbes, and closed vp the place with fleshe in steade therof.

22 And the ribbe which the lord god had taken from man, " made he a woman, & ^(p) brought her vnto the man.

(r) The shame of nakedness is a token of our nature corrupted.

This figure is spoken of in the .x. yearse of this Chapter before, and representeth the situation of Gods garden.

If there be any kyngdome vnder heauen that is excellent in beautie, in abundance of frutes, in plenteousnes, in delictes and other gyftes: they which haue written of countreys, do prayse aboue all, the same that this figure representeth. wherfore, with the prayles of those wyters, Moyses exalteth this paradise, as duely belonging vnto it. And it is very well lyke, that the region or kyngdome of Eden hath ben situated in that countrey, as it appeareth in the .xxxviii. Chapter of Esaias the .xli. yeare, and in the .xxviii. of Ezechiel the .xlii. yeare. Moreover, where as Moyses sayde that a flood dyd proceede from that place: I do interprete it, from the course of the waters, as if he shoulde haue sayde that Adam dyd inhabite in the flooddes syde, or in the lande which was watered of both sydes. Howebeit, there is no great matter in that, eyther that Adam hath inhabited vnder the place where both flooddes come together towarde Babylon and Seleucia, or aboue: It is sufficient if he hath ben in a place watered of waters. But the thing is not darke nor hard to vnderstande howe this floodde hath ben deuised in foure heades. For they be two flooddes which be gathered in one, then they seperate them selues in diuers partes. So in theyr ioynynge and flowynge together, it is but a floodde, wherof there is two heades into two chanelles from aboue, and two towarde the sea, when it begynneth to seperate it selfe abrode. But to declare vnto you the diuersities of the ryuers names, besydes their vsuall and principall appellations, and howe they be called as they passe through eche prouince, with the interpretations of the same, I thynke it rather tedious and combresome, then profitable. wherfore the simple sense of Moyses is, that the garden wherof Adam was the owner, was watered with waters, because that the course of this floodde was there, whiche was deuised into foure heades.

^(c) Though Adam was Lorde of all the earth, yet he brought by his chyliden not idelly.

^(d) These chyliden were taught to wor- ship God of their father.

4 Habel also brought of the firstlynge of his sheepe, & of the fatte thereof: and the Lorde had respect ^(e) vnto *Habel, and to his oblation.

5 But vnto Cain and to his offerynge he had no respect: ^(e) for the whiche cause Cain was exceedyng wroth, and his countenance abated.

6 And the Lorde saide vnto Cain: Why art thou wroth: and why is thy countenance abated?

7 If thou do well, shalt thou not ^(e) receaue: and yf thou doest not well, lyeth not thy sinne at the doores: Also vnto ^(g) thee shall his desire be, and thou shalt haue dominion ouer hym.

8 And Cain ^(h) talked with Habel his brother: and it came to passe *When they were in the fielde, Cain rose vp agaynst Habel his brother, & slewe hym.

9 And the Lorde said vnto Cain: Where is Habel thy brother: which sayde ⁽ⁱ⁾ I wote not: Am I my brothers keeper?

10 And he sayde: What hast thou done: ^(k) the voyce of thy brothers blood cryeth vnto me out of the grounde.

11 ^(l) And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth to receaue thy brothers blood from thy hande.

12 If thou tyll the grounde, she shall not yeelde vnto thee her strength. ^(m) A fugitiue and a vacabound shalt thou be in the earth.

13 And Cain sayde vnto the Lorde: My iniquitie is more ⁽ⁿ⁾ then that it may be forgiven.

14 Beholde, thou hast cast me out this day from the vpper face of the earth, & from thy face shall I be hyd, ^(o) fugitiue also and a vacabounde shall I be in the earth: and it shall come to passe, that euery one that fyndeth me shal slay me.

15 And the Lorde said vnto him: ^(p) Clerlyly Whosoever slayeth Cain, he shalbe punished seven folde. And the Lorde set a marke vpon Cain, lest any man syn-dyng hym shoulde kyll hym.

16 ^(q) And Cain went out from the presence of the Lorde, & dwelt in the lande of Nod, eastwarde from Eden.

17 ^(r) Cain also knewe his wyfe, whiche
conceaued and bare Henoch, and buyldyng a citie, he called the name of the same citie after the name of his sonne Heno-
ch.

18 Vnto y same Heno-
ch was borne Irad:
Irada begat Mehniael, Mehniael begat
Methusael, Methusael begat Lamech.

19 ^(s) And Lamech toke vnto hym two wyues, the name of the one was Ada,
and the name of the other was Sella.

20 And Ada bare Iabel, which was the father of such as dwel in the tentes, and of such as haue cattell.

21 His brothers name was Jubal, which was the father of such as handle harpe
and Organ.

22 And Sella also bare Thubalcain,
which wrought cunnyngly euery craft
of brasse and of iron, the sister of Thubalcain was Noema.

23 ^(t) And Lamech saide vnto his wyues
Ada and Sella: Heare my voyce ye wyues of Lamech, hearken vnto my speache: for I haue slayne a man to the woundyng of my selfe; & a young man to myne owne punishment.

24 If Cain shalbe auenged seven folde, truely Lamech seuentie tymes & seven tymes.

25 Adam knewe his wyfe agayne, and
she bare a sonne, and called his name Seth: For God [sayde we] hath appoynted me another seede in steade of Habel whom Cain slewe.

26 And vnto the same Seth also there was borne a sonne, and he called his name Enos: then began men to make ^(v) inuocation in the name of the Lorde.
