

uens and of the earth when they were created, in the day when the Lord God made the earth and the heauens.

5 And every plant of the fiede before it was in the earth, and every hearbe of the fiede before it grewe. For the Lord God had not [yet] caused it to rayne vpon the earth, neither [was there] a man to tyll the grounde.

6 But there went by a miste from the earth, & watered the whole face of the grounde.

7 The Lord God also dyd shape man, [euē] ^(c) dust frō of the grounde, & breathed into his nolethrylles the breath of lyfe, and man was a lyuyng soule.

8 And the Lord God ^(d) planted a " garden eastwarde in * Eden, and there he put the man whom he had shapen.

9 Moreover, out of the grounde made the Lord God to growe ^(e) every tree, that was fayre to syght, and pleasaunt to eate: The tree ^(f) of lyfe in the myddest of the garden, and the tree of ^(g) knowledge of good and euyl.

10 And out of Eden there went foorth a flood to water the garden, and from thence it was deuided, and became into foure heades.

11 The name of y^e first is * Pison, the same is it that compasseth the whole lande of ^(h) Hauilah, where there is golde:

12 And the golde of the lande is very good. There is also bdellium, and the Onix stone.

13 The name of the seconde riuier is Gy-hon: the same is it that compasseth the whole lande of ⁽ⁱ⁾ Ethiopia.

14 The name of y^e thirde ryuer is " Hidekel, & it goeth toward the east side of Assiria: & the fourth ryuer is Euphrates.

15 And the Lord God toke the man, and put hym in the garden of Eden, that he myght ^(k) worke it, and kepe it.

16 And the Lord God ^(l) commaunded the man, saying: eating, thou shalt eate of euery tree of the garden:

17 But as touching the tree of knowlege of good and euyl thou shalt not eate of it: For in what daye so euer thou eatest therof, thou shalt dye the ^(m) death.

18 And the Lord God sayde: It is not good y^e the man should be alone, I wyll make hym an ⁽ⁿ⁾ helpe " lyke vnto hym.

19 And so out of the grounde the Lord God had shapen euery beast of the field, and euery foule of the ayre, and brought it vnto man, that he myght see howe he woulde call it. For lyke wyse as man hym selfe named euery lyuyng thyng, euē so was the name therof.

20 And the man ^(o) gaue names to all cattell, and foule of the ayre, & euery beast of the fiede: but for man founde he not an helpe lyke vnto hym.

21 The Lord God caused a deepe sleepe to fall vpon Adam, and he slept, and he toke one of his ribbes, and closed vp the place with fleshe in steade therof.

22 And the ribbe which the lord god had taken from man, " made he a woman, & ^(p) brought her vnto the man.

C Thus compasseth also the regions of the Arabian deserts and Arabians.

" De, Tigris.

(k) God spaketh neither idly nor negligently.

(l) Thus man for all his great gifts should be obedient to God.

(m) By death, is signified all the miseries which in Adam were wrought him selfe by his fall from God.

(n) What the husband ought to think of his wife: and what the wife oweth to her husband.

Heb. As before hym.

D (o) Man shewed himselfe Lord of all beastes, by geuyng them names.

" Hebre. buylded.

(p) The first institution of matrimony by God: so all lawfull marriages are made by God i. Cor. xi. b.

(c) This base beginning man should remember, lest he waxed proude of the image of God.

(d) By the singular countessell of God, this part of the earth eastwarde from Hierusalem, was more fruttfull and pleasaunt.

" De, Paradise of pleasure.

" where Eden was. Gen. 3.7.

(e) In such maruclous abundance of provision, mans lust was inexcusable, that could not contayne frō one fruite.

(f) which did preferue the bodyly lyfe.

(g) The name agreeth with the successe that followed.

Eccle. 24. d.

(h) The Amœrites dwell in this lande, Gen. 2.5

